Young Farmer Associa- made up of young men between the ages of 18-35 years of age that are engaged in the occupation of farming. These men set up their own goals each year for the purposes of making improvements in farming. The organization seeks to promote the leadership of these young men. Topics of interest are discussed in monthly meeting of the association. Instructors of vocational agriculture serve as advisers to these men who are still becoming established in farming, and the program is part of the adult education program of local rural high schools.

Young Farmers Add Five Members

In his yearly report at the Young Farmers annual dinner meeting, Wednesday, February 12, R. B. Carter, club advisor, said, "We've made some progress." He reported a membership of 14, an increase of five over last year. Fourteen meetings were held, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harvey of Evergreen were selected as the Outstanding Young Farmers of the Year. W. C. Dudley, area supervisor of Vocational Agriculture, installed new officers.
